

Sailing

You don't have to spend the day lying down at the beach when in Greece. There are plenty of fun water activities you can do on a boat, including sailing. Sail across the turquoise waters of the Ionian and Aegean Seas, discovering secret coves and hidden beaches.

Surf

When people think of Greece, they usually think of its picture-perfect beaches, ancient monuments, delicious cuisine and scenic landscapes. Few or none think about surfing, but it is time to add it to your list of things to do in the country. Though located in the sheltered Mediterranean, Greece enjoys some strong winds, creating waves ideal for surfing (and every other wind sport you can think of). As such, surfing is becoming a popular sport, as is windsurfing.

Scuba diving

Have you ever wanted to explore the wonders of the deep blue sea? Well, scuba diving is an exhilarating experience and one you can have in Greece. There are a plethora of ideal diving spots where you can see marine life and admire the beauty of nature.

Sea kayaking

Paddle along the coast or in the open sea, and find secluded spots. Or take a break in a small cove, and travel to various islands. From sea-kayaking trips in Santorini to a week-long adventure around Skopelos, you will find a wide array of tour operators offering sea-kayak trips suitable for all levels.

Rafting

Get ready to embark on a rafting adventure in Greece. A great activity for nature lovers and adventure seekers, rafting across the waterways of Greece allows visitors to explore secluded paths and marvel at breathtaking gorges and mountain slopes. A fun activity year-round, rafting along the Greek rivers of Evrytania, Epirus or Arcadia is a perfect outdoor activity that combines sightseeing, adrenaline, and nature.

Hiking

Hike your way across mountains, valleys and other fascinating landscapes. Whether you want to do a two-hour exploration or a four-day adventure, Greece is home to numerous trekking and hiking paths, suitable for all levels and ages.

Bird-watching

Not all outdoor activities must include some adrenaline. Greece is home to a series of enchanting lakes and lagoons where bird-watching aficionados will have the chance to indulge in their favorite hobby. A quick look at the map of Greece shows you the vast diversity of the local fauna and flora, and with a little over 190 Important Bird Areas (IBA), Greece is the preferred habitat for a majority of bird species, including pelicans, cormorants, ducks, gulls, geese, and eagles.

Mountain biking

For those enthusiastic about mountain biking, Greece has some special trails to practice this sport all over the country. The routes on which cycling can be enjoyed in Greece are considered to be some of the best in the world. Among these are some very demanding routes due to the hilly terrain, and some others are less strenuous, but all of them are very scenic and beautiful. Cyclists who come to Greece with the wish to explore or with a spirit of competition of this lovely sport are sure to be amazed with the beautiful countryside in Greece.

Horse riding

Horse riding is a fun sport in Greece. There are few horse riding centers scattered in the countryside of the mainland and the Greek islands that offer riding courses and horse riding tours. Particularly amazing are the riding sunset tours on the beachside or up to hills to enjoy the breathtaking view to the sea

Skiing

Thanks to its massive and impressive mountains, winters in Greece means snow and skiing. The country is home to a few ski resorts where snow lovers can practice their favorite activities, including skiing and snowboarding. You may even get to do some sightseeing nearby, such as exploring small traditional villages and sampling the local cuisine. Greece might quickly turn out to be your next favorite winter destination.

Rock climbing

Contrary to popular belief, Greece is a mountainous country with over 80 percent of its land mass being mountains. As such, it is a perfect destination for becoming one with nature; push yourself by climbing some of the imposing peaks in the country. Visit Kalymnos where rock climbing is the main draw, or climb some of the mainland mountainous ranges, including Mount Olympus, Pelion or even Meteora.

Oenotourism

There are presently tens of vine yards and wineries to visit in various parts of Greece, which provide the visitor with the opportunity to tour the magical world of the vine yard and the wine, to become familiar with the traditional and modern methods of wine making and to taste selected Greek wines, in conjunction with traditional flavors.

Culinary Tourism

Greek cuisine is an example of the healthy Mediterranean diet, featuring fresh ingredients such as fish, olives (including olive oil), fruits and vegetables. You will explore and taste traditional dishes of Greek cuisine during your cooking lessons and explore the culture and natural beauty of our gorgeous country.

Jeep Safari

If you are addicted to the sound of roaring engines and spinning wheels you can participate in jeep tours in mountain trails with 4x4 vehicles. Amidst the snowy mountain peaks of Greece lie majestic landscapes with breathtaking views that will impress even the most demanding traveler.

Tandem flights

A tandem flight will uniquely give you the experience of your life to overcome and see the world from the most spectacular viewpoint, pass over mountain peaks, vertical cliffs, towns and villages, beaches and archaeological sites in a way that only birds can. Requiring you to do nothing more than take a few steps at take-off and at landing, you will fly safely, comfortably and calmly with free hands to point, take photos or video. For those with a bit more adrenaline, some acrobatic maneuvers will increase the Gs. Just ask the pilot and you can experience more fun than at a funfair ride.

Tandem Skydiving

Doing a tandem jump is the easiest way to feel the thrill of skydiving. After a thorough ground preparation you will be ready to...take off! Along with expert instructor harnessed to you during the jump, you will enjoy an incredible freefall over the beautiful Mountains and Seas of Greece.
